

I no longer trust the FCC. When Sinclair Broadcasting is allowed to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry (or for that matter, an anti-Bush) documentary days before the election it leaves no doubt that the FCC has abdicated it's role of enforcing the laws that protect public airways.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
